For example, in a 2014 email, Peter Cohen, then the Media Lab's director of development, describes himself as "a bit mortified" that an incoming $2 million donation from Bill Gates — allegedly facilitated by Epstein — was announced by a mass email to dozens of other fundraisers. Under university policy, MIT's fundraising contacts with Gates were set to be handled by Reif himself. But after the mass email, Cohen asked a colleague in development for a way to accept such gifts "quietly" going forward.

Gates has denied that his gift was in any way connected to Epstein.

Hi folks:

Richard requested that we file a contact report about this gift, so when it came in there was a note in advance and people were not surprised. I did not realize that this would be sent to dozens of people on your d list.. I'm already receiving congratulations emails from people in w98 and am a bit mortified.

Given that this relates to Bill Gates, who is on Rafael's prospect list, and Jeffrey Epstein (who is not named but questions could be asked), I feel uncomfortable that this was distributed so widely. If there is no way to file a contact report without it being broadcast, I am going to just tell the two of you verbally and not file contact reports until the money comes in, when it's unusual like this. If there is a way to do it quietly, please let know.

We have amended the report to make 100% clear that we did not solicit this money and Joi did not talk with Bill Gates. That was an error and did not match the body of the report. Thanks.
